

Teachers plan to sue Gov. Walker

The Illinois Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, will file suit this week to set aside Governor Walker's recent action to reduce appropriations for teachers pensions passed by the Illinois General Assembly, officials of the union announced Tuesday.

U.S. District Judge, Executive Director of the IFT, a union which represents over 40,000 Illinois teachers, says Governor Walker reduced the amount appropriated to the pension system by $175 million.

The pension systems involved are the Chicago public school teachers pension system, the downstate public school teachers retirement system, and the State University retirement system, which includes junior college and university teachers.

Well says Governor Walker approved only $146 million for the three systems, less than half of what was appropriated by the General Assembly and $175 million less than what the teachers say is necessary to meet legal requirements.

Well says the IFT will seek a court order to require that Governor Walker approve the amount of money required by the law to fund the teachers' pension systems.

'Flat Grant' welfare program is proposed

Sen. Don A. Moore, chairman of the state's Legislative Advisory Committee on Public Assistance, announced Monday afternoon that the committee has directed the Illinois Department of Public Aid to continue its research into a proposed "flat grant" welfare system for the state.

The announcement came in a Chicago news conference called by Moore and Public Aid Director Joel Edelman to report on the legislative committee's study of California's welfare reform program. Nine Illinois legislators, accompanied by top-level welfare administrators, returned from the week-long study tour Sunday.

In announcing the decision

Moore said, "Members of the Illinois Legislative Advisory Committee on Public Assistance met in California to discuss the findings of our on-site examination of that state's flat grant system. The committee directed the Dept. of Public Aid to continue studying the feasibility of a similar system for Illinois. We instructed Director Edelman to report back later this month with a plan we can review, accept, reject, modify, or strengthen."

Edelman said a flat grant system would be a major welfare reform for Illinois "because this state now has the most complex system in the country. Dozens of factors must be considered in determining the amount a family will receive for food, clothing, and shelter. In addition, the family on assistance may qualify for any number of approximately 90 special allowances."

Edelman said a flat grant system, on the other hand, would reduce the high rate of errors now made in computing grants. Most special allowances would be eliminated, and families would receive a set amount every month based on family size. Welfare clients would have more responsibility for managing their own budgets and would not be required to ask the agency for each special need.

Details of a flat grant system for Illinois have not yet been determined, according to Moore, nor has a date for implementation been set. "The Department of Public Aid has been exploring alternatives to its present system for some time," Moore said. "A great deal of solid research has been done in recent months, and our California study convinced us that we should move ahead as quickly as possible."

Moore said 90 per cent of California's welfare recipients received an immediate increase in benefits when the flat grant system was instituted in 1972, at no additional cost to taxpayers. "The 33 per cent who received the same amount or less were persons with other income or the greatest employment potential."

"Flat grants, combined with other welfare reforms and a crackdown on fraud, enabled California to give a 27 per cent across-the-board increase in benefits to welfare recipients with no other income. At the same time, projected costs were cut by $1.2 million."

Edelman said the Department of Public Aid became interested in California's welfare reform after he and Gov. Dan Walker met last spring with Caspar Weinberger, secretary of the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Weinberger offered technical assistance to help Illinois resolve welfare problems and suggested the state look at California's success in reducing caseloads and expenditures.

In May, members of the Legislative Advisory Committee met with HEW officials in Washington and were invited by Robert Carlsson, former California welfare director and now U. S. commissioner of welfare, to study the California program. HEW will share expenses of the trip, Edelman said, "because Illinois is considered a 'target state' for welfare reform."

Like California, Illinois experienced unprecedented growth in public aid caseloads and expenditures over the past 10 years. California's rolls grew from 600,000 to 2.3 million from 1960 to 1970. Spending hit $2.5 billion a year.

From 1963 to 1972, Illinois' caseloads grew from 288,000 to more than 5 million persons. Expenditures climbed from approximately $350 million a year to $1.5 billion in Fiscal Year 1973.

Moore commented, "In two years, California has cut welfare rolls by 350,000 persons and has substantially increased payments to the truly needy and deserving. We think Illinois is ready to benefit from their experience."

Other California reforms studied by the Legislative Advisory Committee included: Orange County's child support enforcement program which now collects $12 million a year in child support from absent fathers through strengthened legal activity and close cooperation with local law enforcement officials; an earnings clearance system similar to Illinois' new computerized system for checking the outside earnings of welfare recipients; a work requirement program for employable recipients; improvements in computer technology aimed at stopping fraud and speeding payments to recipients and providers of service; and reforms in the Medico-Cal program (California's Medical Assistance Program), including prepaid group practice and programs to review the utilization of medical services.

The committee also spent a day in the state of Washington studying a flat grant system in operation there since 1972.

Members of the Legislative Advisory Committee on Public Assistance making the trip were: Sen. Don A. Moore (R-Midlothian), chairman; Sen. A. C. "Junie" Bartulis (R-Bond); Sen. Daniel Dougherty (D-Chicago); Sen. Esther Saperstein (D-Chicago); Sen. Fred J. Smith (D-Chicago); Rep. Charles M. Campbell (R-

Pleads innocent to rape charge

A man charged with the rape of a 12-year-old girl in the Kirkpatrick Homes housing complex pleaded innocent during arraignment Monday before Associate Judge Merlin Hiscott. Bail was set at $25,000 and he was placed in the custody of Madison County deputies early Tuesday morning.

Tommy Joe Johnson, 28, of the 4000 block of Kirkpatrick Homes, whose address also was listed as Avondale, W. Va., was arrested at 12:40 a.m. Sunday and charged with rape and theft.

Police said the latter charge stemmed from the alleged theft of gasoline from an auto belonging to a resident in the 2200 block of Washington Avenue.

Officers said that a man was taken into custody after an incident involving the 12-year-old was reported.

The girl told police she and a man walked down the street to a nearby drive-in restaurant for a soft drink and had returned to the housing complex about 10:30 p.m. Saturday where the incident occurred. The girl reported that her screams for help during the assault went unheard.

Johnson was assigned a public defender and a preliminary hearing has been set for tomorrow in Edwardsville.

We think this Bulova looks twice its price.

The man who owns this handsome 17 jewel diamond watch by Bulova is fortunate, indeed. In our opinion it has all the features of a far more costly watch. The smartly-shaped case blends perfectly into a 10K gold-filled metal band. Three diamonds gleam against a tiger-eye type dial. The look is one of refinement... the price, only $113.

mechanics, part of the 1000 membership in District 9 of the International Association of Machinists, in a contract dispute with auto dealers in Missouri and Illinois, set up picket lines at several firms in the Quad-City and surrounding areas.
District 9 Business Manager Francis Cianci told the Press-Record, "The strike at the present time is against auto dealers only, with wages and fringe benefits being the main issues, and to my knowledge no new meetings have been set to resolve those issues."
That same afternoon, negotiators at the Holiday Inn near Edwardsville reached an interim pact and immediately afterwards union officials began notifying the selective strikers in this area to return to work.
The agreement called for area dealers to sign the same contract and to match any wage increases negotiated, retroactive to August 1, that the St. Louis association and the bulk of District 9's members agree to.
The bulk of the district's membership is in St. Louis and still out on strike due to a lock-out.
A member of this area's dealers' association who attended the Edwardsville negotiations, said his group is "completely separate" from the Missouri dealers.

Rites today for Kenneth Powell, 37

Funeral services were held at 10 a.m. today in Mexico, Mo., for Kenneth Powell, 37, of 2602 Cayuga St., who allegedly killed himself after two persons were wounded at Jerry Lipps Truck Service Co., 4610 Hall St., St. Louis, Monday.
Police said a man shot at Miss Linda Johnson, 27, of St. Louis, a clerk at the trucking company, and William O. Morrow, 47, St. John, Mo., manager of the company. He then turned his .25 cal. automatic revolver on himself.
The incident took place at about 3:20 p.m. after the man had quarreled with Miss Johnson, police said.

Home loans for veterans

The Veterans Administration has initiated new measures making it easier for married veterans to qualify for guaranteed home loans.

Administrator of Veterans Affairs Donald E. Johnson said VA regional offices have been told of the new changes. "In consideration of current social and economic patterns, VA will hereafter recognize in full the income and expenses of both the veteran and spouse in determining ability to repay a loan obligation," Johnson explained.

The spouse's income has always been considered for this purpose, but in the past, local rules which had the effect of discounting the young wife's income were often imposed. Under the new policy, no such local rules will be imposed and the wife's income will be given full consideration.

VA guarantees 60 per cent of home loans (maximum $12,500).

Brazil an expanding country, GC Rotary members are told

Granite City Rotary Club members heard a first person description of the cultural and economic aspects of Brazil, presented by Dennis Gillie at Tuesday's luncheon meeting. Gillie has recently returned from a two-year stay in Brazil in conjunction with Latter Day Saints Church program for the young members of the congregation.

Albert Froemming, program chairman for this week's meeting, introduced Gillie who said, "the growth of the country has been fantastic with great influxes of industries and increases in the population and the number of cities."

He reported that most of the cities in Brazil are less than ten years old, having been built since the 1964 revolution. An interesting fact was that the army is separated into two divisions, the regular Army and the MP's. The MP's, he told, were the equivalent to this country's local, state and national police, and they keep a close watch on crime, which is at a very low rate in Brazil.

In Brazil, litter is not a national problem because the cities are swept clean by hand every night. Foreign investments in Brazil are on the upswing, with several new Japanese industries being built and a large German automobile factory already in operation.

The country also is leaning toward requiring more education. An eighth year compulsory education program now is in effect and is expected to be increased to eleven years in the near future. When Gillie first arrived in Brazil only a four year compulsory schooling program was enforced.

Patrick to oppose Whitsell

Edgar A. Patrick, Nameoki Township tax collector, will be seeking next year the District 26 Madison County Board seat now held by Nameoki Township Supervisor Louis Whitsell.

The announcement of Patrick's candidacy came when the Village Improvement Party Committee of Pontoon Beach voted unanimously to endorse Patrick's candidacy at a bar-becue earlier this week.

SIU trustees to meet tomorrow

Revision of construction plans for a proposed single student housing project at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will be sought when the SIU Board of Trustees meets tomorrow at Edwardsville.

On the Carbondale campus, proposals for including a concentration in occupational education in the program for a doctor of philosophy degree in education and for a bioclinical psychology concentration in the psychology Ph.D. program will be presented to the board.

SIUC also is scheduled to ask authorization to grant an honorary degree and a distinguished service award. The meeting will begin at 9:30 a.m. in the University Center ballroom at SIUC.

Aid pledged to residents whose homes are damaged

Mayor Paul Schuler told the City Council and several residents of East 23rd and 24th streets Monday night, "I will instruct the city attorney's office to make the possibility of providing assistance to all residents who have registered complaints here tonight."

The mayor made the statement in response to complaints from several residents of the 2300 block of East 23rd Street, that their homes were being extensively damaged by operations at a nearby plant and by open boxcar fires at the same location.

Some of the residents complained that crushers, cranes and trains operating within the plant premises were causing vibrations resulting in cracked windows, floors and the falling of plaster from ceilings in their homes.

They further stated that trucks awaiting entrance to the firm were parking on East 23rd Street thus blocking driveways to private homes.

Concerning the open burning incidents, Fire Chief Don Paroske said that he and a representative of the Granite City Air Pollution Control Department had talked with the plant manager of the firm Monday morning concerning these incidents but received no satisfactory answers as to the firm's plans to alleviate the problem.

A representative of the air pollution department mentioned that Sunday's fire was the fourth this year and he is recommending to Dr. Reid Sutton, assistant technical secretary of the air board, that the company be cited under air pollution control acts.

Dissenting aldermen took issue with two of the 21 resolutions presented to and passed by the City Council during the meeting.

Seventh Ward Alderman Emerald Daves voiced objection to the acceptance of an ordinance to plat into six lots property known as Willard Acres, located north of Pontoon Road across from the Colonias Nursing Home, fearing the possibility of a major drainage problem in the future.

The ordinance was accepted by an 11-2 vote, allowing construction of a road to a new church complex on the property.

Second Ward Alderman Sam Whitner cited past experience in opposing a resolution to appropriate funds for improving storm water drainage throughout the city in the amount of $75,000.

Whitner claimed that the resolution had been presented to the council once before, that six aldermen had opposed it because of knowledge that the money would be spent to improve only one section of the city.

The council noted that the Petrillo Producing Women's Softball Team is the new Illinois State Show Pitch Champions, adopted a resolution calling for all citizens to congratulate and extend all possible support to the team as they advance to the Regional Tournament to be held Aug. 17 and 18 at Geneva.

The aldermen also noted that Mrs. Robin Deterding, a member of the team, was chosen the most valuable player of the tournament.

In attendance that night was Mrs. James (Alice) Worthen, Quad-City chairwoman, Gateway Chapter of the National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation, who addressed the council saying, "On behalf of six million children who suffer from this devastating disease, I am taking this occasion to formally request of the Board of Aldermen and the mayor of this city, for your approval of a planned door-to-door march of volunteers for the National Cystic Fibrosis Foundation during the week of Sept. 9 through 16, and the placement of canisters in the community for the 'Breath of Life Campaign.'"

Continuing, Mrs. Worthen said, "Our area comes under the jurisdiction of the Gateway Chapter in St. Louis which services the residents of Southern Ill. and Eastern and Central Missouri."

"We are very fortunate to have three C.F. care, teaching and research centers in our area which operate on grants from the foundation and have been extremely successful in increasing the life span of many youngsters who not only suffer from cystic fibrosis but chronic bronchitis, childhood emphysema and bronchiectasis."

Her request met with overwhelming approval and will be conducted under the supervision of the chief of police.

New veteran burial benefits

Two new veterans benefits, part of the National Cemetery Act approved by the President in June, will become effective in August and September.

For veterans who have died after August 1 the Veterans Administration will pay a lot or interment allowance of $150 in addition to the $250 maximum already authorized.

Starting September 1, payment of funeral expenses up to $800 is authorized for veterans who die of service connected causes.

V.A. Administrator Donald E. Johnson pointed out that V.A. has for some time paid allowances to funeral directors or other persons who bore veterans' burial expenses. The agency also pays transportation costs of veterans whose deaths occur in its hospitals or domiciliarys, or who die while hospitalized or being treated at the agency's expense.

Johnson said the current maximum $250 burial allowance has been in effect since 1958, and traced this history of burial allowances to the War Risk Insurance Act of 1917—providing up to $100 toward burial expenses of certain persons whose deaths occurred before discharge from military service; in 1923—allowance extended to veterans with insufficient funds to cover burial expenses; economy acts of 1933—reducing $100 allowance to $75, later restored to $100 by executive order in 1934.

The agency limitation on allowances was removed in 1956 and the maximum allowance increased from $100 to $150 under Public Law 79-529 in 1956.

Public Law 85-624 increased allowance to current $250 maximum in 1958.

PREPARING FOR MUSICAL. Young people from First Assembly of God Church erect the stage banner for an outdoor musical to be presented at 8 p.m. Friday on the church parking area on Madison Avenue at 24th Street. Choir to perform musical

The sanctuary choir of First Assembly of God Church will present the second in a series of outdoor musicals by giving a repeat performance of the John W. Peterson musical, "The Good Life," on Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

Due to the good response to last summer's presentation of the musical, Dan Albrecht, musical director at First Assembly of God, said the group elected to give the repeat performance.

The choir will present the musical accompanied by a fully orchestrated band arranged and conducted by Don Wyren for John W. Peterson.

Tomorrow evening's concert is only one of a number of musical productions planned for the near future, Albrecht said. Each will demonstrate the fine talent for which the First Assembly singing groups have earned an excellent reputation in the community, he added.

The concert will be given on the church parking lot, located on Madison Avenue between 23rd and 24th streets.

The project is being undertaken in cooperation with the men's organization.

Mrs. Pat Hancock was welcomed as a new member, and a letter of appreciation was read from Joe Lucido, chairman of a one-day drive to aid the American Cancer Society, for assistance afforded by Elkettes members.

THE WORLD OF MUSIC

'The Move' spurs classical pop

By JUDY HUGG
Copley News Service

By 1973, in an effort to leave no stone unturned, pop music had taken every available direction one would think possible. Yet true classical music lovers and rock fans alike probably shook their heads in disbelief when classical pop arrived on the scene.

It was the Electric Light Orchestra's "Roll Over Beethoven" that struck the hearts of America and brought about a new wave of excitement in contemporary music. This is how it all came about.

In 1966 a new group was formed called The Move. It was led by Carl Wayne and Roy Wood. They were respected as much for their understanding of classic pop music structure as for their experiments in "underground" rock, and by 1972 were generally considered one of the world's best and most imaginative groups.

In 1970 The Move was joined by Jeff Lynne, whose concepts of music were similar to Wood's and together they conceived the idea for a group that would make not only "The Move" but everything else in rock obsolete: The Electric Light Orchestra.

"What I'd like to see happen," said then member Carl Wayne, "is a complete pop orchestra. I'd like to get about five groups together, all good musicians, and take over the Royal Albert Hall for a concert. It'd start off with the whole orchestra sitting down to play, and just the soloists standing to do their thing. But the whole concert would end with a complete maze of sound, with everyone blowing together. There would be a certain pattern to that, but apart from that it would be free-form — almost the ultimate in pop music."

However, when Wayne left the group, these theories were bent by Lynne and Wood, along with drummer Bev Bevan to fit their conception of how pop music and classical themes could be joined. Although The Move wasn't disbanded yet, all their creative energy was being channeled into ELO. The same personnel were used with the addition of several guest soloists from the London Symphony Orchestra.

After a few changes in the lineup the group finally settled down to Lynne, guitar, vocals and moog; Bevan, drums; Wulf Gibson, violin; Mike Edwards, cello; Colin Walker, cello; Mike DeBugeo, bass; and Richard Tandy, moog, piano and guitar.

The debut of ELO was greeted with unbounded enthusiasm, their first LP selling remarkably well for a first effort by an unknown group, and then came the smash "Roll Over Beethoven" on United Artists Records.

It was a concept record, in some ways a novelty due to its opening classical bars, but basically it was one of the "er rock" to roll offerings of the year. Then came their second LP "ELO II," which was a great advancement of the original concept. It seemed that having the string men as members of the band made it possible to integrate the symphonic and rock styles more effectively and imaginatively.

"ELO II" contains only five cuts, and this allows time for all aspects of rock and classical to be laid down. "Roll Over Beethoven" runs for eight minutes along with "From the Sun to the World" and there's an 11-minute version of "Kulama."

With a group like The Electric Light Orchestra, there's no telling what might happen next. For they are limited only by their own imagination, and their imaginations seem to be unlimited.

NEW IN THE CLASSICS:
The great violinist Isaac Stern and pianist Alexander Zakin combine their considerable talents in a very listenable performance of two sonatas by Brahms. The title of the Columbia release, "Isaac Stern Plays Brahms," is a bit misleading because the brilliant piano of Zakin also is very much in evidence in the playing of Brahms' Sonata No. 2 in A Major and Sonata in E-Flat Major. The sonatas are rarely performed and are welcome additions to the living music of Brahms.

Tip — alcohol removes ink

By BETTY W. KINER
Copley News Service

Ballpoint ink stains, you've had it!

Dear Betty: On a pair of polyester slacks I used a paper towel to learn in rubbing alcohol. I just kept putting on alcohol until the ink was gone. Then I laundered them. I used hair spray on a wool skirt once, but it didn't take out the ink. Just thought you would like to pass this on to your readers. — Lola Herblom, Lodgepole.

Thank you for sharing, Lola. On wool I would be a little careful about using anything at all. You never know how it is going to react to something different. But, for washable fabrics such as polyester knit, try rubbing alcohol or hair spray. Worts wonders.

Pension plans being improved

By FRANK CORRICK
Copley News Service

Q. What are the moves to strengthen pension plans?

A. As the number of people covered by pension plans continues to increase, efforts are being directed toward strengthening the guarantees and benefits of retirement programs.

At the same time there is considerable pressure to further improve the pension system for the benefit of the workers. Two major bills are being considered by Congress to this end. Congressional attention is being focused on these specific areas:

Vesting: Seeing that a worker's rights to benefits are guaranteed in a plan after a reasonable period of time.

Minimum mandatory funding standard: Guaranteeing that there is a sufficient amount of money in each pension program so that the worker receives his benefits when he retires.

Fiduciary standards: Calling for the establishment of a standard for those who administer the plans accompanied by specific rules on what the administrators can do with pension plans.

Disclosure: Disseminating more meaningful information on the pension plans to employees.

Plan reinsurance: Setting up some system, either public or private that would take over the guarantee for the benefits of plans that are terminated.

Q. I'll be 65 next June and my employer will retire me on my birthday. I will have made over the $2,100 allowed by Social Security when I retire. Does that mean that I will be without wages and Social Security for the rest of the year?

— Mrs. M. H.

A. No. Social Security will pay you for any month in which you earn $175 or less in wages. In your case it wouldn't make any difference how much you earned up through June. You can get aid from July through December if you limit your earnings to $175 or less each month.

Q. At some point in time since retiring on a Civil Service pension, I received information that if the cost of living increases by 3 per cent or more and remained there for three or more months, Civil Service pensioners would receive an automatic increase to cover the cost of living increase.

Granite City Press-Record

I have not received any increase since August, 1972, yet I am sure my cost of living has increased more than 3 per cent since then. Please comment. — N. M. Mc.

A. Naturally, you should be entitled to your increasing costs, and the only source who can advise you is your former employer under your Civil Service employment.

Q. I understand that it isn't necessary to sign up for Medicare now that the government automatically signs you up. — Mrs. T. B. V.

A. It's not that simple. Anyone becoming entitled to Hospital Insurance (Part A) of Medicare will be automatically enrolled in Medical Insurance (Part B) unless he (she) doesn't want it. A person eligible for this automatic enrollment is given an opportunity to decline the coverage and once coverage begins, will be free to dis enroll if he (she) wishes.

In the past over 96 per cent of those eligible did actually sign up for Part B but there were instances when some individuals signed up late and lost several months of coverage. The automatic enrollment procedure was adopted to prevent this loss of coverage.

EPA head here Monday on 'fact finding trip'

Jack Marco, acting director of the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency, will be in this area Monday on what EPA officials describe as a "fact-finding trip."

Marco has invited several state officials to accompany him, including State Sen. Sam Vadalabene (D-Edwardsville) and State Rep. Horace Calvo (D-Granite City).

The group is scheduled to visit the Mt. Lanfoll on Chautau Island at 10 a.m. Monday. At 11 a.m. they will be at Owens-Illinois Glass works in Alton and at noon they will stop for lunch at Charlie's Restaurant here.

A 2 p.m. visit to the East St. Louis Sewage Treatment Plant is planned and at 2:30 p.m. they will see the air monitoring station on the East St. Louis Federal Building. They then will leave for Sangre.

An EPA spokesman said the trip is not for the purpose of investigating complaints but is only to gather information.

Explorer Post 10-33 to take float trip

Explorer Post 10-33, a law enforcement Explorer Post sponsored by the Granite City Police Department, and three committee members and their wives are taking a float trip by canoe this weekend on the Black River in Southern Missouri.

The group will leave Friday and return Sunday. They are using the canoes based at Camp Sunnen, Potosi, Mo., summer camp of the Cahokia Mound Council.

Taking the trip with the Explorers are Granite City policemen Roy Roberts, Glenn Wright and Jim Loyd with their wives.

Juvenile problems Madison Rotary topic

Madison County Deputy Sheriff Edwin Knevezich, juvenile officer, spoke to the weekly meeting of the Madison Rotary Club, Seventh and Iowa streets, Madison, at noon Wednesday.

The juvenile officer explained the four charges that can be made against a juvenile—delinquency, child in need of supervision, neglected minor and dependent minor. The deputy was critical of current programs presently being attempted in correctional facilities such as the Pere Marquette Youth Development Center at Graton, claiming they are unrealistic.

The Rotarians sang the traditional birthday song to Fred Schmidt, the group's secretary, who was born in 1955.

GC pre-schoolers to register

Registration of pre-school children for fall classes sponsored by the Granite City Park District will take place from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Tuesday at the Wilson Park office.

Youngsters will attend two-weekly sessions at the Nameoki Recreation Center, Franklin and Amos avenues. Supervisors under the direction of Mrs. Rosemary Lindner will direct craft and games sessions, story telling hours, field trips and other recreational activities.

Children residing within the Granite City Park District boundaries, who will observe their fourth birthday prior to Nov. 1, 1973, are eligible to enroll in the pre-school program.

A total of four classes is being organized with the number of participants limited to 35 per class.

The program is free, however, children usually bring 10 cents per day for refreshments and are required to be covered by park district insurance costing $2 each. Those having purchased insurance during the summer months are not required to obtain additional coverage, Harold Brown, park superintendent, said today.

Fall sessions will continue through December with new classes being formed in January. Prospective pre-school pupils will be accepted on a first come, first served basis, the park official said.

AWARDS ROAD BID

The Illinois Department of Transportation has awarded contracts on bids received for road improvement and maintenance projects in the state totaling $75.4 million.

A maintenance project, awarded to the H.H. Hall Construction Company of East St. Louis, will involve deck repairs, waterproofing and concrete resurfacing of the Interstate 270 Bridge over the Chain of Rocks Canal for $287,458.

MRS. LOUIS J. LANNING, the former Miss Sue Prewett of Tulsa, Okla., a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. Prewett, 2727 Buxton Ave. She was married Aug. 4 at the First Baptist Church in Tulsa.

Sue Prewett weds Louis J. Lanning

An out-of-town wedding of interest to local residents was that taking place Aug. 4 of Miss Sue Prewett of Tulsa, Okla., who became the bride of Specialist Five Louis J. Lanning of Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

Voices were exchanged in an early afternoon ceremony at the Wedgewood Baptist Chapel of the First Baptist Church in Tulsa.

The Rev. LaVern Platt officiated at the 2 o'clock wedding before an altar banked with tall baskets of white stock and gladioli.

Miss Prewett is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. Prewett, 2727 Buxton Ave. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton J. Lanning, who reside in Avondale, La.

For her wedding, the bride selected a gown of white dotted Swiss designed in a princess style featuring a high neckline edged in tiny lace that was repeated on the cuffs of the pulled sleeves. Matching lace defined the lines of the skirt.

A flat bow secured the shoulder-length veil, trimmed with a lace braid, and she held a colonial bouquet of white shasta daisies.

Mrs. Jerry Heffey was matron of honor and the bridesmaid was Miss Pam Jenkins. A green dotted Swiss gown fashioned with Sweetheart neckline and puff sleeves was selected by the bride. Miss Jenkins chose pink dotted Swiss gown made in an identical style. They carried colonial bouquets of daisies in shades to match their gowns.

William Lanning a brother of the groom, was best man and the groomsmen were Bill Prewett, a brother of the bride, Jerry Heffey, John F. Prewett and Richard Kayser seated there arriving at the church.

A reception followed the ceremony in the Western Room of the church. After a wedding trip, the couple will reside in Key West, Fla.

The bride is a graduate of Granite City High School, Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville and East Central State College, Ada, Okla. She is teacher.

The groom is now serving in the U.S. Army.

U.S. Army aids scouts at Idaho Jamboree site

By ROBERT MOSKE
Press-Record Jamboree correspondent

We started off with Forest Crawford who was selected to carry the American Flag in the opening ceremony Wednesday morning. He and 289 other boys chosen from among the 30,000 scouts attending Jamboree West were part of an honor patrol in the opening program.

Troop 55 was represented by Chuck Taylor in the greeting committee of Jamboree scouts which welcomed Bob Hope at the Coeur d'Alene (Idaho) airport. Mr. Hope made a big hit with the scouts when he appeared at the opening arena show.

Eric Miller will be the troop representative at the Grizzly camp forum on the topic "Growing Together."

Troop 55 will have as its guest at dinner this evening Arthur W. Sadler. Mr. Sadler was one of the original members of Baden-Powell's first Boy Scout group and we are all looking to meeting him.

With the opening of Jamboree West this encampment has become the third largest city in Idaho. One third of the state police force of Idaho are here to help the Scouts.

We are doing our cooking over charcoal which is being supplied each camp from a main supply contained in four box cars.

Some of our Scouts will be fishing in Buttehook Bay which has been stocked with 12,000 rainbow trout. Each trout weighs from six ounces to two pounds. During the Jamboree, each scout is eligible to catch two fish per day.

The Jamboree will feature a performance by the U.S. Army parachute team—"The Golden Lights."

All trails in the vicinity of the Jamboree have been closed for the duration of the Jamboree due to extremely dry weather. The U.S. Forestry Service reports hazardous fire potential due to a lack of rainfall within the last month.

The U.S. Army did the scouts a "Good Turn" when they converted the park into our Jamboree site.

Company C of the 86th U.S. Army Engineers was responsible for constructing water and sewage systems, electrical facilities and latrine areas at the campsite.

A 100-bed hospital was set up by the 62nd Army Medical Group, and an Army ambulance service connects the scout health center with the hospital unit.

The health service has $150,000 worth of medical supplies. Helicopters are available for use in cases of injured or sick persons needing medical attention at hospitals away from the Jamboree site.

After the Jamboree is over, the scouts will clear the area, restoring it to its former condition so there will be a minimal environmental impact.

KROGER'S PLEDGE
We are doing our best to offer you the wide variety and reasonable prices you have come to expect at Kroger. However, at the present time, we are facing a situation beyond our control which makes it difficult for us to give you the same quality and quantity of products as we have in the past. This is due to temporary shortages caused by nature's whims and Government-imposed economic controls. During the June 12 - July 18 price freeze process and retailers were limited in what they could pay the farmer for his product. Since the farmer has this would not cover his expenses, he cut back production or delayed marketing some products. As a result, many food processors cut back or shut down their plants, resulting in food shortages. Even now with the price freeze lifted on all foods except beef, future supplies are uncertain. And while food prices have risen, we are determined to keep our prices as low as possible. Because Kroger has Extra Low Everyday Discount Prices, Plus Bonus Bargains, good for a limited time made possible by special purchases, manufacturers' allowances of favorable market conditions. We identify these with an "X" in our ad. When you shop Kroger consistently — week after week — you can hardly help but save money. That's the whole idea behind Kroger's Savings Plan.

Food shortage unnecessary, farm bureau president says

There is no reason this nation should be faced with food shortages. Food shortages can be avoided if farmers have a chance to make a profit producing food. If consumers are willing to pay reasonable prices for their food, and if the government will quit tampering with prices and get down to the business of controlling inflation.

That statement was made by Harold B. Steele, Illinois Farm Bureau president in Chicago Monday, in a news conference on the subject "How Farmers Are Fighting Food Shortages— and Why They Haven't Been Doing More."

Steele said that farmers like to produce food but it must be remembered that, under the competitive enterprise system, farmers don't set prices for what they produce.

"Farmers react to prices that are offered to them by others. If the price offered is judged by the farmer to give him an opportunity for profit and an adequate return for his risk, management, labor, and investment, he will produce. If the price isn't high enough, he'll

State Fair tractor pull

By MARY LOU MANNING
Capby News Service
Springfield—Come Aug. 16 and 17 many farmers will leave their fields and head for the grandstand at the Illinois State Fair in Springfield. Approximately 300-350 are expected to participate there in the Illinois State Championship Tractor Pull, according to John Burris, president of the Illinois Tractor Pulling Association and superintendent of the event. But not all of them are farmers.

"About 80 per cent of the participants are from the farm," explained the Martinsville resident, "but many in the garden tractor classes are not." The garden tractor weighs 1,000 pounds and is of the variety used to mow large lawns.

Just what is a tractor pull? Well, the participant starts out at the beginning of the 300-foot pulling lane with an eight-ton weight transfer sled connected to the back of his tractor. As he proceeds down the lane more weight is automatically added to the sled. The winner is the entry pulling the most amount of weight the farthest distance. For instance, a winner in one of the heavy classes (3,000 pounds and above) may end up pulling 18 tons—that's 36,000 pounds—behind him.

Twelve classes will compete in the event with $400 plus a trophy going to the first place winners in each class except the garden tractor classes. Winners in this category will receive a $100 prize and trophy.

Not all of the entries are from Illinois. The only prerequisite for entry is that the contestant participate in an ITPA sanctioned contest after August 1, 1972, and before that date this year. Too, the entry must be certified by the superintendent of the contest in which the entrant participated.

Age limit for participants in the large tractor classes is 18 years. For the garden tractor classes, anything goes.

This is the first time the event will be held at the grandstand. The move was made to facilitate the large crowds expected to attend the free show. The event will begin at 9:30 a.m. both Thursday and Friday.

The principal judge for the contest is Joe Sutter, Gibson City.

Madison residents tour Appalachia

Paula Ouchelt, 712 Madison Ave., and Leonard Koliste, 1008 Alton Ave., both of Madison, toured Appalachia this summer as part of a Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville travel study course.

Members of the class, geography 404, toured parts of Kentucky, Tennessee, and North Carolina to study the cultural, physical and economic geography of Appalachia.

The course was taught by Ronald E. Yarbrough, assistant professor of earth sciences at SIUE.

produce something else or quit farming. So, prices have to be high enough to "discourage" production or we'll have food shortages. It's as simple as that."

Steele said that if farmers see an opportunity to make a profit they will produce more food. He pointed out that crop reports already have shown that farmers are trying to produce more grain.

"It's still too early to tell exactly what effect Phase 4 will have on the production of pork and beef, but early indications are that farmers have been encouraged by market-oriented controls of Phase 4 and are beginning to produce more pork. With reports that the call crop this spring was larger than usual, an increase in beef production is possible, but continued price ceilings on beef are disrupting markets and discouraging expansion.

"Consumers should realize this: It takes nearly a year-and-a-half from the time the farmer decides to increase pork or beef production until that pork is on the supermarket counter. It takes nearly three years for farmers to increase the supply of beef. Food prices cannot be expected to level off until there is an increase in food production."

What can consumers do about the situation? The farm leader said:

"First, they should avoid overreacting. Boycotts and controls had a lot to do with the mess we're in now. Panic buying will only make it worse.

"Secondly, consumers should not let the government overreact, especially as it did with price freezes which turned out to be one of the biggest blunders in the fight for a better economy."

"Throughout the rising food price situation farmers have been telling consumers that government price controls will do more harm than good and that high food prices don't cause inflation, it is inflation that causes high food prices. It is the responsibility of Congress and the Administration to cut excessive government spending and reduce our dangerous rate of inflation."

"The simple key to ample food supplies at fair prices is to achieve a stable economy and let the American competitive enterprise system work. Our system may not be perfect, but it's a darned sight better than whatever is in second place." Steele concluded.

A guaranteed pension sought in Price bill

Cong. Melvin Price 33rd District Illinois, has introduced H.R. 9670, the "Retirement Income Security for Employees' Act." Price said that the bill is designed to insure the credibility of pension plans. It provides minimum pension standards that guarantee employees a pension after a minimum employment period, he said.

Following are the major provisions of the Pension Reform Bill:

It establishes within Department of Labor an Office of Pension and Welfare Plan Administration to be headed by an Assistant Secretary of Labor which will administer the provisions of the Act.

It prescribes minimum vesting standards whereby employees, after eight years of service would be entitled to a vested non-forfeitable right to 30 per cent of his earned pension credits accumulating and additional 10 per cent each year thereafter until 10 per cent vested at the 15 year employment.

It establishes a minimum funding requirement for funding of all pension liabilities over a 30 year period.

It establishes a voluntary program for portability of pension credits through a central fund, whereby employees of participating employers may transfer vested credits from one employer to another upon change of employment.

It establishes a plan termination insurance program to guarantee that vested pension credits of employees will be paid upon premature termination of a plan when there are not sufficient assets to pay workers' vested benefits.

It establishes minimum rules of conduct for trustees and other fiduciaries in the administration and investment of pension fund assets.

It requires comprehensive disclosure of vital financial data in reports to be filed with the Federal Government, and understandable explanations to workers of their rights and obligations under their pension plans.

It makes it unlawful for any person to discharge, suspend, expel, fine, discipline, or discriminate against participants in order to interfere with their rights under the plan or the Act, or for the purpose of preventing the attainment of their rights under the plan or the Act. It is made a criminal offense to use fraud, force or violence, or threats thereof, in this connection.

It provides adequate remedies to both the government and the individual worker for judicial and administrative enforcement of the bill's provisions, including recovery of pension benefits due.

Political dollar shortage

By KEN WATSON
Copley News Service
Springfield—The Statehouse is beginning to talk about a dollar shortage.

It has nothing to do with the state budget, the beef shortage, soybean exports or the sudden high price of eggs.

It's strictly political.

Who's going to get the money to finance those 1974 campaigns?

Competition for the Illinois political dollar next year is shaping up an unprecedented. It could make the current scramble at the supermarket meat counters look like a game of patty-cake.

Not only are there going to be more high-pressure organizations in the fund-raising game than ever before, but the available dollars are certain to be far fewer than has been the case for some years.

Watergate, state investigations, new laws on the state and federal level and a general overall scrutiny of political donations are likely to dry up many of the traditional sources of campaign funds.

Granite City Press-Record

With inflation continuing unchecked and economists talking more and more about a recession, businessmen are likely to be far more hesitant than in the recent past to kick in to the various campaign coffers.

Because of Watergate and the fallout of bitterness that has followed in its wake, most Illinois Republican leaders are predicting that their party will not in the foreseeable future come close to matching the huge campaign kitties that marked the 1972 campaign, state well as national.

The gloomy prospect facing the party in this state next year will undoubtedly be a further dampener on contributions.

Statehouse Democrats, even with what looks like a strong ticket for 1974, are almost as equally pessimistic fund-wise.

Although Republicans may be the major beneficiaries, Illinois Democrats traditionally have received a respectable share of business political money, especially from highway contractors.

Labor unions have been a big help and there is a worry that with a recession threatening, these organizations may be inclined to hold surplus money for use as possible unemployment benefits to laid-off members rather than throwing it into the political arena as is done in prosperous times.

But what has really irritated many Democrat loyalists is the forming of the Illinois Democratic Fund, headed by Gov. Daniel Walker's associate, Angelo Geocarri. Statehouse Democrats insist that the IDF can be nothing but a trouble-causing rival to the Democrat State Central Committee and Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley's potent Cook County organization.

What worries many Democrats is that the Walker-Daley rivalry will discourage many would-be contributors from contributing to either faction. This Democrat candidate especially for legislative and local offices would be hurt.

At the Capitol a campaign for an office with prestige of governor or U. S. senator is estimated to cost about $1 million. For attorney general or state treasurer the tab is generally placed at about $750,000.

A state senator or representative can expect to shell out from $50,000 to $100,000. A substantial share of this money comes from state-wide rather than local efforts.

Thus a Walker-Daley scramble for available money could hamper Democrat efforts to wrest control of the Illinois House and Senate from the Republicans, a major 1974 goal.

Restoration Society meeting at 8 tonight

A meeting of the Downtown Neighborhood Restoration Society will be held tonight at 8 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Padgett, 2219 Delmar Ave., to discuss forthcoming projects and plan activities for the year. Walter Padgett, president of the Society, announced today.

The meeting agenda will include a report on the Flea Market, sponsored by the DNRS during a sidewalk sale held last week in conjunction with the downtown merchants, and a discussion on participating in the Granite City Jazz Festival "Downtown Days Carnival" set for Aug. 31.

Plans will also be discussed to take part in the Granite City Junior Service annual House Tour in early September. The organization is to arrange for a tour of two remodeled houses in the downtown area to be included in the service clubs program.

Another project of the DNRS is to establish a free newsletter, sponsored by the merchants and published by members of the club.

Padgett said prospective new members are invited and anyone wishing further information may contact him at 870-0943 or John Mefford at 451-5785.

ST. ELIZABETH HOSPITAL PRAISED
To the Editor:

I would like to give a word of praise to St. Elizabeth Hospital, having been a visitor in Granite City recently.

I had the misfortune to become quite ill. And very much in need of medical attention, a doctor was not available, so I was taken to the emergency room at the hospital and received treatment there. I was indeed grateful for the way I was treated and the attention that was given to me. I especially want to thank Dr. Ralph Bell and the nurses who worked with him for the interest that they showed and for being so very kind to me. It was certainly appreciated.

DOGS POSE PROBLEM FOR BIKE RIDERS

To the Editor:
The people of Granite City and surrounding areas have a definite problem with dogs running loose.

We have a dog, and we love our dog. When our dog is outside, he is either put on a chain or we close all the gates in our fence.

My wife, daughter, son and myself are avid bicyclists, although we do not belong to any club or organization. We do enjoy a family outing on our bicycles, until someone's dog runs into the street barking and snapping at our feet.

I, as an adult, can cope with this situation, but what about my 7-year-old daughter?

A barking, aggressive dog presents a dangerous situation. Having been dog bitten twice myself, I do not relish the same fate for my wife, daughter or son.

There are two courses of action that can solve this problem.

Strict enforcement of the leash and muzzle law, which however would be quite costly, or if dog owners would equip their dogs voluntarily—keep their dogs in their own yards, by whatever means necessary.

Tonight I was riding my bicycle on 23rd Street between Adams and Benton streets. A dog came at me barking and snapping. I answered the dog's hostile aggression with a foot to his head.

The owner, nearby, asked, "Why did you kick my dog, mister?" Why must this question even be asked? Why must my children, my wife myself and countless other people be continually harassed by your dogs running loose in violation of the law? Keep your dogs at home or muzzle them.

In closing, I wish to ask every dog owner to sit back in his easy chair, close his eyes and make a mental picture of his child or grandchild riding a bicycle. Pretty picture, isn't it? Now visualize an aggressive dog coming into that picture. Need I say more?

Business grant to SIUE

The School of Business of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville has received a $15,000 grant from the United States Office of Education to underwrite continuation of a work-study program at SIUE called the Professional Experience Program (PEP).

Oliver M. Holmes, director of PEP, said the program is designed to provide work experience and economic assistance to all who wish to participate.

The student, according to Holmes, combines work and study during a five-year period. The freshman year consists of four quarters of full-time study. The four following years consist of six-month periods of alternate work and study.

During the study periods, the student will follow the University's regular academic schedule and complete

DISPUTE RESULTS IN MAN INJURED

Harry (Toby) Whitman, 37, of 2001 Harris St., Madison, was admitted to the intensive care unit of St. Elizabeth Hospital at 7:30 a.m. Sunday after an apparent stab wound in the left chest.

Granite City police said Whitman was taken to the hospital by Michael Redman, 2032 Harris St., Madison, who reported Whitman received the injury at Namecki Road and Madison Avenue when the latter exchanged words with the driver of an auto that a few moments earlier had sprayed Redman's car with rocks in the vicinity of Kirkpatrick Homes.

Whitman, a passenger in Redman's car, left the vehicle and approached the driver of the second car who then drove away leaving Whitman wounded at the scene.

Former resident vice-chancellor

Dr. W. Carl Wimberly, a former Granite City resident, now dean of the College of Letters and Science at the University of Wisconsin-La Crosse, has been named vice-chancellor of the university, according to an announcement by UW-L Chancellor Kenneth Lindner.

In making the announcement, Chancellor Lindner said Wimberly is "a great administrator in the College of Letters and Science" and added he was looking to Wimberly to continue that leadership as vice-chancellor. Wimberly succeeds Dr. Maurice Graff who retired from the position July 1.

The Faculty-Administrative Appointments Committee, comprised of faculty and students, and the Administrative Council reviewed the credentials of 82 candidates and made their recommendations to the chancellor.

Springfield bureau—Illinois coal is still a major resource

Two recent government developments augur well for the Illinois coal industry, which has suffered many setbacks over the last quarter-century.

The Illinois General Assembly approved a bill sponsored by Rep. Richard Hart, D-Benton, which would prevent the state antipollution agencies from requiring that industries using Illinois coal sharply reduce sulfur emissions until technology to remove such emissions is available.

If Gov. Dan Walker signs the bill, it means the Pollution Control Board could not force industries to go to other fuels instead of burning coal. A great deal of experimentation is under way in an effort to develop devices which will scrub the sulfur out of coal emissions. However, no adequate and economical system for this scrubbing has been perfected.

Certainly the Hart bill should not take off the pressure for development of a sound scrubbing method. If anything, there should be even more pressure because of the need for utilizing sources of energy other than oil and natural gas. While known reserves of oil and gas within the United States could be depleted by the end of this century, there is sufficient coal to meet the nation's energy needs for generations.

What is needed is the technology to convert the coal into conveniently usable energy as well as the technology to control air pollution stemming from its use.

Along this line, the federal government is stepping up its investment in research regarding production of clean pipeline gas from high-sulfur coal, which most Illinois coal is. The Office of Coal Research in the U.S.

Department of the Interior has awarded an $18,100,000 contract to the Institute of Gas Technology, a Chicago to develop "a practical and economical method of using rock coal to produce hydrogen gas." The Office of Coal Research is putting up two-thirds of the cost and the American Gas Association is putting up the other one-third.

The goal is construction of a demonstration plant beginning about 1976 and development of commercial plants in the 1980s, so gas from coal can supplement the dwindling natural gas supplies.

Use of coal appears extremely important to enable the United States to supply more of its energy needs from domestic sources and not have to rely so much on foreign sources, over which the United States has little control as to either quantity or price.

It is also important that the technology be developed to preserve the quality of our air and that scars to the earth's surface from removal of the coal be properly repaired. This means adequate controls on air-polluting and requirements that stripped areas be restored to near their original condition.

Additional research needs to be done to provide the means for using Illinois coal without the threat of excessive air pollution. There needs to be concentration on extracting the coal in a safe manner so as to avoid catastrophes which have cost many lives in the past, and in a proper manner to avoid leaving mined out areas as wastelands.

But coal promises to be a continuing source of a big share of the energy supply our nation needs. And Illinois should be one of the major providers of that coal.

Springfield bureau—Why was a volunteer advance man needed?

The Secret Service says it was not responsible for tearing down a sign critical of President Nixon during his visit to Pekin, Ill., recently.

It credits the action to "a volunteer White House advance man, Peter C. Murphy of Eugene, Ore. The White House identified him as an unsalaried advance man whose expenses are paid by the government.

We can understand the use of unsalaried volunteers as advance men during political campaigns. However, Mr. Nixon's trip to Pekin was to participate in the dedication of the Durkin Library there and had nothing to do with any political campaign.

Springfield bureau—Choice of Adams may promote party unity

THE Republican State Central Committee has made a good choice in Don Adams of Springfield, as the new state chairman. Adams' selection is so important a political post reflects credit on his home city as well as himself.

The unpaid post he assumes is a tough one. Illinois is a hard-fought-over state in any national election and, perhaps, nowhere else in the United States is the two-party system so strong.

Elections in this state are decided by a variety of factors, most of them far beyond the powers of a state chairman, Republican or Democrat. But a good chairman can strengthen his party's cause by promoting unity, building a strong grass roots organization down through the county. Why was a volunteer advance man needed? The services of a volunteer advance man from Oregon to assist in arranging a presidential trip to Illinois?

Both Illinois senators, Adlai Stevenson III and Charles Percy, have called for thorough investigation of the practice of destroying signs or harassing peaceful picketers in the name of presidential security.

We suggest the investigations go further and determine why a volunteer advance man was needed. What were the reasons? What were the circumstances? What were the results? What were the lessons learned?

Both Illinois senators, Adlai Stevenson III and Charles Percy, have called for thorough investigation of the practice of destroying signs or harassing peaceful picketers in the name of presidential security.

We believe Don Adams will fit the bill in all categories. He has come up through the political ranks as a precinct committeeman, learned urban politics in Springfield city campaigns, and has become versed in the problems and views of the farmers through his position as Republican central committeeman for the 30th Congressional District, a predominantly rural one.

At 37 Adams brings the vigor and flexibility of youth to the chairmanship. We wish him well and have confidence in his ability to once again do well in a challenging post.

Methadone becoming a new drug threat

The Bureau of Narcotics reports that methadone, a substitute drug used to treat heroin addicts, has itself become a major object of illicit drug traffic.

Substituting one addiction for another is a doubtful approach to a drug problem to begin with. Now, methadone is creating new addicts who have never used heroin. The new drug is proving even harder to control since it can be made outside a laboratory.

This could be a case of a "cure" being worse than the disease. Experience with methadone is a convincing argument for putting more emphasis on treatment programs designed to eliminating dependence on drugs of any kind.

Gadgets filling U.S. classrooms

Copley News Service

Paper, pencils and chalkboards will probably never be replaced in the classroom but they've been joined by some interesting counterparts.

Computers, television and other audio-visual aids have been used in a number of classrooms as part of many classrooms of the '70s.

Today instructional media includes computers, closed circuit or commercial television, films, slides, still pictures and mono or stereo tapes in addition to textbooks.

Stanford University, for example, is the way in the use of computers in education, but now other universities and colleges as well as public school systems are catching on.

At Stanford, technicians developed a computer system which not only teaches mathematics but furnishes professors with reports to help them figure out students' strengths and weaknesses in a variety of subjects.

To learn math by computer, a student punches out his or her name and number on a teletype terminal linked to the computer.

The student works out the problems in whatever type of math is called for. Then the computer corrects the problems, shows the student where he made his error and judges his ability level.

The computer's record of the student's performance tells the professor where each student needs the most training.

Computers have speeded the learning process in math. With computers providing the answers in drill-and-practice situations a student often knows how he is doing and his rate of progress in seconds instead of days.

Some educators see the day when students will have mini-computers which can be used at home or at school.

Others predict that the day is close when computers will be used in subjects like literature and history, with ultra-complex programming for dialogue.

Televised teaching has increased more rapidly than any of the other audio-visual educational aids.

It already is used widely in many classrooms across the nation and appears destined to be a standard instructional aid in schools of the future.

It is possible that two-way television sets will further enlarge the classroom's scope by allowing students to communicate via satellite with students in classrooms all over the world.

One of the biggest learning-oriented advances has been in the development of the "multimedia library or learning center."

"These centers combine all of the technology under one roof that might be brought into the classroom for only a limited time. This includes: slide, film, filmstrips, catalogs, language, newspapers, magazines, texts and other books, overhead transparencies, educational games, programmed materials and microfilm collection."

One such center is located in Norton, Mass., which serves more than 1,000 and 18,000 students.

"We aren't book burners but we feel books are only one kind of learning tool," said John A. Stefani, director of the center. "Films, tapes, slides and photographs give definite insights."

"If a child is tied to a textbook only," said Stefani, "he has one tool only and is limited in his learning ability by his reading ability."

Technologists and most educators are convinced that these and other electronic equipment will fit into the scheme of education in the '70s and beyond. But it will be expensive.

In many areas of the United States taxpayers have consistently refused to approve school bond issues which would allow for the purchase of such equipment, saying such things are a waste of money.

Yet Dr. Donald B. Nyquist, President of New York State University and Community, Inc. of Education of the State of New York, believes "that with the help of technology, education of improved quality can be more economically produced to meet the demand."

Dr. Nyquist noted that many teachers and administrators are not enthusiastic about employing educational technology.

This, said Dr. Nyquist, is because they fear they'll lose their jobs to machines and they don't know how to integrate technology into the teaching process.

Dr. Nyquist is confident the problems can be overcome and technological advances will be used in a fashion that will "serve effectively and efficiently the user, namely the student, the teacher and staff of our educational agencies."

Gifted and retarded get special classes

Copley News Service

Gifted and retarded children have special needs, and that they have in common is that they don't want to be labeled as "funny" and "different."

"One of the important things schools try to do is label the programs and not the kids," said Dr. David Wright, director of Exceptional Child Services for the San Diego Unified School District.

As a result, schools have not only developed special programs for the gifted and retarded — only have tried, where possible, to let gifted and retarded students spend time with regular students for part of the school day.

Programs for educating mentally retarded children are usually three-fold. One is devoted for severely handicapped or retarded children who because of their physical or academic limitations do not qualify for enrollment in any other public school program.

Another is for children whose ability for academic learning is very limited, yet are trainable, and are able to use social adjustments and be useful at home and in a sheltered environment.

The third program is an occupational training program for trainable pupils which is designed to develop occupational skills that can enable them to work in a sheltered workshop.

"The programs run from kindergarten through high school with additional occupational training available on the junior college level," said Wright. "We try to urge the kids to go into the junior college program because the experience they gain makes it easier for us to help them find jobs."

Wright pointed out that the children in these programs are not segregated from the other students.

"Usually programs are on an integrated basis where the children can enter regular school programs for from one to three hours a day," said Wright. "It's important that these children be exposed to a variety of people because they will have to deal with all types in later life."

Children are placed in these programs only after extensive psychological testing, consultations, reviews and the parents have given their permission.

Reevaluation of each child is done annually, and the parents have the right to withdraw the child from the program at any time, Wright said.

"I never rule out the possibility of any child in these programs developing to the point where he or she can compete in the regular school program," said Wright.

According to Wright, gifted children are identified early, usually in kindergarten. These are the children who score in the top two per cent on individual psychological tests.

A committee screens the results and consults with the parents about accelerating the child but above all "we consider the child's needs and whether he or she is mature enough to make the transition from one school to another in a new learning experience."

According to Wright, the gifted child is one of the most neglected in any school system.

"They get turned off very early and then try to hide their abilities," said Wright. "People seem to think that because these kids are so bright they don't need any help or guidance but in reality they need as much or more than a retarded child."

Providing these children with stimulation from their mental powers is the goal of any gifted child educational program. This usually starts in elementary school where these children are clustered together in groups of eight to 15. These cluster classes continue through junior and senior high school.

For highly gifted children there may be special seminars in elementary and junior high school and independent study courses in high school. These are in addition to the regular accelerated program which may include honors courses, self-initiated studies, exploratory work experience and summer enrichment courses.

As in the retarded program every effort is made to integrate the gifted children into the stream of regular school life.

"These children are one of the most valuable resources our country has," said Wright. "They're like gold nuggets and they should be brought into the sunlight and polished."

"These are the future statesmen, educators, scientists and businessmen," he said. "We can and will solve the problems we're plagued with."

Color key to fall fashions

Copley News Service

Colors hold the fashion spotlight on the back-to-school scene this year.

Gone are the garish peacock colors of years past. Enter the subdued gold colors of fall '73: burgundy, hunter green, camel and grey.

"Combinations of these colors will be very vibrant as well as pleasing to the eye," said Mrs. Betty Weisfeld, fashion coordinator for a large West Coast department store. "They'll be on many of the styles which were seen in summer."

From elementary school to college coats will be wearing shades of every description: blouson jackets, shirt jackets, hunting and battle jackets, as well as blazers.

But the biggest thing in jackets is the return of the chubbly. Originally considered a part of every girl's dream wardrobe, the 1973 version is designed strictly for informal occasions.

Perfecting with either elastic or a draw, chubbies come in either real or fake fur and feature leather trim or streamer trim ribbing.

"Pants will continue to be popular," said Mrs. Weisfeld. "But now they'll accentuate the waistline by featuring high waists with belts and slimmer, straighter legs."

"There'll be some trousers," she said, "but not many."

Returning to fashion prominence along with the chubbies is the blouson-style shirt which Mrs. Weisfeld says is part of a more feminine look that coats will have this year.

The skirt will feature low pleats "for movement at the bottom." Another popular style will be the trouser skirt which signs up the front like men's trousers.

"Both these styles should be worn with a tucked-in blouse or sweater in order to accentuate the waistline," said Mrs. Weisfeld. "A shirt jacket could complete the outfit."

The feminine look will be further changed by a style out of the late '30s and early '40s — sweaters in twin sets. However, they'll bear the double mark of the '70s in their styling.

The inner sweater steps at the waist, giving it accent, while the outer sweater is a long cardigan type.

"This is an excellent investment," said Mrs. Weisfeld. "It actually gives a girl three outfits in one because the sweaters can be worn separately."

reality or together or with a blouse."

Twin sets will be seen in both matching and contrasting colors featuring solid inner sweaters with striped outer sweaters.

Sweaters will also be seen in patterned styles, jacquards, stripes and argyles and will feature shawl collars and draw cuffs.

"I see a new interest in long and short dresses," said Mrs. Weisfeld. "Pants are now a basic part of girls' wardrobes, and a dress offers her a means of expression. Again, the accent will be on the waist, either a belt or ribbing or some kind of detailing."

The most popular fabrics will be seersucker and polyester cotton because they are easier to take care of.

Shoes will feature the return of the moccasin. Up- fronts, sport tips, caprisoles, sandals and pumps will also be prominent.

It'll be the luggage look in purses and totebags with the ever-popular shade bag doing an encore.

Heavy will feature beads of enamel and wood; bracelets of tortoise, bone, silver and gold; and amulets on chains.

Hats will be more in vogue than they have been in years, said Mrs. Weisfeld. Berets, knit caps and small brimmed hats will find their way into just about every girl's closet.

On the guy's side of the ledger the ever-popular Levi cut will be the dominant style, but a modified "Great Gatsby" look is expected to carry on into fall and winter.

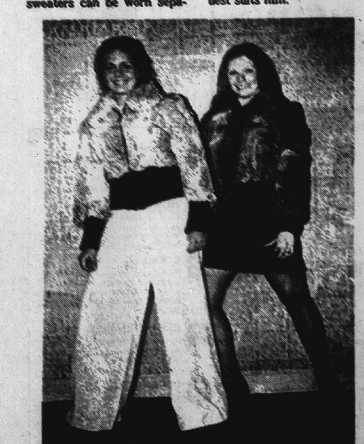

This year, too, guys will be seen wearing knit flares, chinos with cabs and super-stitch pants with coordinated tops for that casual look.

For the trend setters Mrs. Weisfeld recommends plaid pants worn with a small print shirt.

"The secret of combining patterns like this is to stay within the same color range and keep those colors in the same intensity," said Mrs. Weisfeld. "This is a really new concept and it can be very pleasing to the eye if it is done correctly."

Sweater and polyester knits will be the main fabrics for the guys' fashion line in their styling.

In accessories, the sweater vest, long cardigan and battle jacket will complete any outfit. Belts will continue to come in a wide range of colors and styles, as will shoes and socks, thereby giving the clothes-conscious man the chance to pick a style that best suits him.

CHUBBIES ARE BACK!—Those cozy little fur coats of the late '30s and early '40s are going back to school in the sporty styles of the '70s. Perfect which inner sweaters, dresses, chubbies come in fake or real fur and feature either sporty baseball "jackets" with ribbing (left) or chic seersucker trim.

SIUE public seminars set

A new forum for interdisciplinary study and discussion of serious problems facing society is being established at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. It will be known as the University Seminars at Edwardsville and is being sponsored by the office of the president.

The seminar "will present the public with the best we have to offer on matters of both current and perennial interest. One of our brightest lights has been hidden under a basket for too long. The basic reason for which we exist—academic inquiry—should be getting a greater share of public attention," Dr. John S. Rendleman, SIUE president, said.

The entire University community and the public will be invited to attend and participate in the proceedings of the seminar, the president said.

A central theme, topic or problem will be selected early in the fall quarter of each academic year. The Schools of business, education, fine arts, humanities, science and technology and social sciences will each have one faculty member as a member of the seminar. Faculty members will be selected by the president from states of three to be nominated by each participating school. Faculty members selected for the seminar will receive an honorarium of $600 for their contributions to the functioning of the seminar.

Faculty members selected for the seminar will designate a outstanding student to be known as a presidential scholar. The student will assist in his school's presentation during the proceedings of the seminar and will receive a $300 stipend.

A visiting speaker will be selected by the president with the advice of the faculty, to deliver the keynote presentation at the opening of the seminar each year. During the year each participating school will offer its presentation on the central seminar topic. Cooperative approaches within academic disciplines will be encouraged.

At the conclusion of each presentation, other members of the seminar will be able to ask questions, offer comments and suggest criticisms. The public will have an opportunity to participate in the dialogue. A record will be kept of all sessions. At the end of the year, the proceedings will be collected and published.

Topics Rendleman has suggested as possibilities include truth as public property, life as a value, the shape of the future, man and woman—sexual role and identity, the idea of hunting, search and research, and home and mobility. Faculty members have been invited to suggest topics. "The only requirement is that the topic be sufficiently general as to appeal to some way to scholars in the schools whose orientation is not exclusively professional," Rendleman said.

Indict two officers on surveillance charges

Illinois Attorney General William J. Scott announced today that the Peoria County Grand Jury has indicted two law enforcement officers for allegedly using illegal electronic surveillance in a criminal investigation.

Attorney General Scott initiated an investigation leading to the Grand Jury proceedings on the request of Peoria County State's Attorney Michael Milam.

The indictments were voted against Terry Fondriest, a detective on the Peoria Police Department, and Robert Webb, a corporal with the Illinois State Police. Both were charged with using eavesdropping which carries a fine up to $1,000, or imprisonment up to one year in a penal institution other than a penitentiary, or both; or from one to two years in a state penitentiary.

They also were charged with official misconduct which carries a penalty of one to three years imprisonment, and forfeiture of office or employment.

Twenty-three witnesses testified during the Grand Jury hearings which were conducted by James Gibbs, chief of Scott's Special Prosecutions Unit.

The Peoria State's Attorney removed himself from the case after learning that the incidents took place during a time when he was legal advisor to the Peoria Police Department. Food service changes at SIUE in store

Students and faculty who buy their meals at the University Center can expect to see some changes on the menu, according to William Crabb, director of food services at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville (SIUE).

Crabb said food changes and price increases will be necessary when the Phase 4 economic controls are lifted.

Phase 4, announced on July 18 by Secretary of the Treasury George Shultz, removes the price freeze on all food products except beef by Sunday. Beef price restrictions will be removed on Sept. 12. Then food processors can pass the cost increases to the consumer.

Crabb said price increases for food at the university would only take effect when absolutely necessary, and then, only within the guidelines of the university and Phase 4.

"Food service must operate at no more than two per cent profit or loss, according to university guidelines," Crabb said.

He said that Phase 4 guidelines allow price increases, based upon the actual raw food costs. After September 12, all increased cost such as overhead and labor costs can be passed on to the consumer.

In addition to the price increase, the availability of certain products is a problem. Some items, such as beef products, may not be available at any price.

Thomas Barschak, SIUE purchasing agent, confirmed the problem.

"I called our beef supplier to order our beef products—the supplier laughed at me. The supplier said he didn't have any beef to sell us tomorrow, and he didn't know about next week," Barschak said.

Crabb said, "Customers in the University Club may have to order from a mimeographed menu that can be changed daily to reflect food availability and price fluctuations." Crabb said the "specials" offered in the University Club and the cafeteria would be continued as long as possible.

The cafeteria always offers one hot meal for 98 cents. Crabb said, "We'll not sacrifice the nutritional value of the meal, but we may have to exchange some of the food for less expensive dishes. For example, in order to maintain the lower price we may have to serve a cheese dish instead of a meat dish." He said every step will be taken to keep the prices on all meals as low as possible.

Crabb said that in order to curb the price increases, he has stopped preparing many convenience foods such as pre-processed meats like veni and pork cutlets. Another cost saver is to use as many local seasonal products as possible in the menu according to Crabb. He said if beans are plentiful and the season, we take advantage of them.

Sometimes an item must be dropped from the menu because the price of ingredients is too high. Crabb said that recently, cherry pie was discontinued when cherries became too expensive.

"We've become cost conscious," Crabb said. "We really watch things like electricity, water and labor cost—all we save helps to keep the costs of the food and services as low as possible."

By JUDITH G. BROADBENT

Q. My wife and I are retired. Over the past three decades, we have accumulated a large amount of blue-chip stocks, which of course over the years have increased in value. I have also over the years purchased numerous corporate bonds that are yielding me 3 per cent, 6 per cent and in some cases 7 per cent. I want more yield, but I would have to pay terrible capital gains taxes to sell the stocks. Do you have any suggestion? — C.J., Stillwater, Wash.

A. The chances are that not all your holdings should be sold. Corporate bond yields have been increasing over the years; consequently, you probably would sell the bonds which you now own at a loss.
The losses from your bonds could offset the gains from a sale of some of the stocks which you hold. Then, you could purchase a new portfolio of bonds which would give you a higher yield. If your dividends and interest are enough to set your federal income tax rate at about the 30 per cent rate, you should at least consider the purchase of municipal bonds, when each year you can take advantage of tax swapping your bonds. I have enclosed a booklet on municipal bonds for you. If any other of my readers are interested in receiving this booklet, please write me in care of this newspaper.

Q. My broker wants me to get into the options market to trade stocks. He also tells me to buy straddles rather than puts or calls. The stocks he suggested are what I would consider as very volatile.
Doesn't that make my option
risk? — E.P., New Hartford, N.Y.

A. When you decide to go into the options market you are already a speculator. The purchase of a straddle, although more expensive than a put or a call is really beneficial to you, because you cover both sides of the fence. If you're going to trade, trading against an option on a volatile stock is good, because what you are looking for is movement in a stock in order to trade it. With a straddle, you do not care which way the price movement is — up or down — just so long as there is price movement to give you the chance to trade. Risky, yes, but the risk is that the stock stays at the same price, and won't give you enough price movement in one direction to trade it.

Q. I have just recently remarried. During my previous marriage, we constantly argued about money. Do you have any suggestions about managing our funds. We both work and have no children. —
F.K., Lake Quaker, Mo.

A. First of all, you should both decide who will take the prime responsibility of money matters. Since there are two incomes, once you have discussed and decided upon your financial goals, you should establish a particular use for each income. Save regularly.
If you start a monthly savings account to pay your large bills, such as insurance premiums or taxes, the large bite taken from your spendable income won't be quite as transmatic. Don't spend money for investments that you need to save to pay for those bills or emergencies. Don't abuse your credit privileges. If you understand your financial limitations and are realistic about what you can afford to spend your approach to money problems will be on a more objective level.

Thought for the Week: "No investor can expect to be active in the market over a period of years without experiencing some losses, but their responsiveness can be reduced considerably by learning the characteristic patterns of bull markets and secondary reactions and bear markets and panics through the years." —
H.M. Finley

Project renewed

The Special Education Microteaching Project at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville has been renewed for the third consecutive year with a grant of $38,825 from the Bureau of Education for the Handicapped, U.S. Office of Education.

The grant is for the 1975-76 academic year, according to William R. Whiteside, chairman of the SIUE Special Education department. Emmet Beutner, director of the project, explains that the microteaching clinic was designed "to bridge the gap between theory and research in the application of the technical skills of teaching presented in special education courses at SIUE."

"Microteaching permits the student to practice specific techniques containing technical skill components in a practical teaching-learning setting with exceptional children," Beutner said. "The review and evaluation of tapes produced by students provide feedback which can be used to correct or modify previous efforts and to stimulate innovative techniques in teaching the exceptional child."

Whiteside said the project has "considerable potential impact upon the field of special education in that it will produce contributions in the form of improved teacher-training methodology and in the form of field-tested instruction packages."

"Both of these contributions can be applied nationally to enhance the professional development of educators of handicapped children," Whiteside said.

Car-motorcycle collide, 2 hurt

A motorcycleist, Ronald G. Wilson, 32, of 9 Parktown West, Granite City, was injured and taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital at 5 p.m. Monday when his machine and an automobile collided at 23rd Street and Edison Avenue.

Mrs. Virginia M. Thomas, 48, of 2318 Ivy Lane, driver of the car, was ticketed for failure to yield the right-of-way. She sustained a minor injury.

Wilson was treated at the hospital for multiple bruises and abrasions to the left elbow, right knee and back. He had X-rays taken and was released.

Thieves ransack church offices

Intruders ransacked two offices at St. John United Church of Christ, 2901 Nameoki Road, overturning a coffee pot causing damage to carpeting and also damaging a ceiling and hallway wall while attempting to open a vault, the Rev. Paul Surbey, pastor, reported Monday.

Entry into the building was gained by breaking a basement window pane on the south side of the church and unlatching the window. A soda dispensing machine was a prize open and about $2 in coins removed.

Two office doors were forced open and the rooms ransacked. Entry into the vault was not gained, the minister said.

TREATED AFTER FALL
Mrs. Gertrude Harrison, 72, of 1816 Calhoun St., Venice, was treated in the emergency room of St. Elizabeth Hospital for a mouth injury, sustained in a fall on the curb at 18th Street and Edison Avenue at 11 a.m. Monday. She was taken to the hospital in a police car and released after treatment.

Appoint 3 new GC policemen

A new ordinance governing the Granite City police department formally creating four new positions within the department, was accepted by the City Council Monday night at its regular meeting.

The council approved the appointment of Craig Noon, Steve Willard and Robert Krume to the Department. These appointments were made to fill three vacancies which exist in the rank of probationary policeman. The fourth position remains open.

Also, receiving approval were the appointments of Charles McKinison as boiler inspector, and Don Farente, Blaine Lambert, Marion Morris and Paul Repp as members of the hearing board.

The resignation of Darrell D. Vaughn from the position of hearing inspector was accepted in similar voting.

In response to a letter from Jerry Dugan, a student at Southern Illinois University-Edwardsville, volunteering his services free of charge to the city, the council approved his training in the Air Pollution Control Department under the supervision of Dr. Reid Sutton, assistant technical secretary.

Chairman Emerald Daves of the street and alley committee, reported to the council that he had asked a candidate to accept the position of city engineer. The man declined and Daves said he will continue to interview applicants for the position.

A resolution appropriating $6,000, for the codification of Granite City ordinances was passed at the meeting.

The money, to be derived under the Revenue Sharing Plan, would allow for coding each ordinance for easier reference.

On the recommendation of Street Superintendent Lionel Portell, the council approved replacing, as needed, the present storm sewer grating with that of a waffle design as a safety feature.

Police Board Chairman Gerald Farney requested and received approval of the members to make application to the State of Illinois for a grant in the amount of $45,000.00 to create a Crime Prevention Unit in the city.

Farney said that with burglary and breaking and entering in residential areas rising 70-80 per cent in recent years, the main objective of creating the unit will be to decrease property crime in these areas.

Crime prevention officers would attend a four-week course, and a command officer would attend a one-week supervisory course offered by the National Crime Prevention Center in Louisville, Kentucky.

Requests for payment of unrelated bills presented to the Council resulted in one being approved and two being referred to the assistant city attorney.

Receiving approval for payment was a request from St. Elizabeth Hospital in the amount of $65 for medical services rendered to a police prisoner who had bumped his head in a jail cell on July 18.

A notice of intent to commence legal action against the city was read from Attorney Richard Altan, on behalf of Mary Alice Baker, 2945 Export Ave., alleged injuries she suffered in a fall on June 1 at 20th Street and Edison Avenue.

Ron Sashon Auto Body, 1822 Grand Ave., was awarded a contract for $225 to repair the auto of John Tucker, 2310 Cottage Ave., which was damaged on April 18 in an accident with a Granite City police car. Payment is contingent upon adequate insurance coverage.

Keys to solving energy crisis

The biggest culprit in the energy crisis is the automobile, according to Lionel Walford, professor of physics at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, who suggests a 25-cent-per-gallon punitive tax on gasoline "to discourage persons from using their cars and to encourage use of car pools and mass transit."

"The tax could be used," the SIUE physicist says, "to generate more public transportation, which could be subsidized even to the extent of being free. Then everybody would be faced with an economic trade-off between the convenience of driving their own cars or getting a free ride on public transportation."

"Some would, of course, have to drive," Walford concedes. "There is no getting around that, but if the net revenue were available, then mass transit could certainly be attractive. One has only to look at countries such as those in Europe where the population density is four or five hundred persons per square mile, to see the effective use of mass transit."

Walford says in this country the energy crisis is more acute because "the U.S. has used up a larger fraction of its oil and natural gas resources than the rest of the world. The U.S. consumption curve peaked in the middle 60's, whereas the world oil production won't peak until 1980."

Walford attended a meeting this summer in Mexico City of the American Association for the Advancement of Sciences (AAAS) where he said the main thrust of a symposium on the energy crisis was use of non-nuclear energy sources.

There are three main non-nuclear sources of energy, Walford said: solar, wind and geo-thermal. "From solar energy, which scientists agree holds the most promise, can't be thought of as non-nuclear," he says, "because it is caused by nuclear reaction on the sun. Nevertheless, as far as the earth is concerned, I suppose it is an external form of energy. A great deal of energy falls on the earth's surface every year—9,000 kilowatt hours per square meter. If we could harness even a small percent of this, it would go a long way toward solving some of our problems."

"For example," Walford explained, "there is enough energy in the solar radiation to evaporate 400 billion tons of water a year, which gives one some idea of how much energy is available."

"The key to using solar energy is the development of high power silicon solar cells which will directly convert the energy from heat energy and light energy into electrical energy without going through the usual process of boiling water to steam and then using a steam turbine," he said.

"A good example of direct conversion of energy is every green plant which converts solar energy into chemical energy," Walford said. "Plants are underway to develop what is called artificial photosynthesis to copy exactly what plants do and convert solar energy directly."

A localized application of solar energy for individual households could be made by covering the roof of one's house with solar cells to generate at least enough electricity to run a few air conditioners in the summer or in the winter to generate heat in the house, the SIUE scientist pointed out. "This could by no means provide all the energy required for any average family, but at least it would take the load off during peak hours—4 to 6 p.m.—in places where blackouts have occurred."

Walford predicts that in five years five per cent of new construction will include this type of installation and that in 10 years it will be up to 10 per cent. "Technically, it's feasible now," he said. "It's just a matter of economics. It will start with the very expensive homes. In a few years it will become more economically feasible for middle class homes."

On a larger scale, solar energy could be used commercially if large enough arrays of solar cells were built, Walford said. "The design would have to be located in an area where sunshine was practically guaranteed every day."

"From there the energy would be transported to other parts of the country where the power is required. Some power is lost in transmission so New York's problems can't be solved by building a solar power station in New Mexico or Arizona. But, at least, energy for the southwestern part of the U.S. could be provided, making more fuel available for the remainder of the country."

Second and probably the least universal source of energy is wind, according to Walford. "The biggest windmill was built in Vermont during World War II, which I believe was over a megawatt (more than a thousand kilowatts) and at the time I think it cost about $100 a kilowatt to build. It would cost four times that amount today. Clearly, use of windmills would have to be restricted to areas where the wind speeds averages a fairly high value."

When we think of geo-thermal energy we think of the hot geysers in Yellowstone National Park, Walford said. "There are several places in California where this kind of energy seems feasible, and the government of Mexico is developing a commercial station in the northwest part of that country to exploit geo-thermal energy."

Two other sources of non-nuclear energy were cited by Walford: hydro-electric and ocean tides. In the former, the use is limited "because you have to be located in mountainous countryside so a dam can be built to trap the water to use gravity in generating electricity. This is being done in the Alps area of Europe as well as at the Tennessee Valley and Hoover dams in the United States."

"As far as I know, the only commercial application of harnessing the tides was by the French, who built a dam across a large estuary," Walford said. "When the tide comes in, the water goes through sluices. When it goes out again they close them, forming an artificial lake. When the tide is out fully, they let the water run out. This works in the same way as a hydro-electric plant."

An invitation has been made to those interested to attend a dinner Tempel's Smorgasbord at which time the Exploring program will be explained in detail. G. H. Sternberg will serve as the Institutional Representative and Dave Wilson will be the post advisor.

Serving on the adult committee are Al Poley and Larry Zick, both from S. M. Wilson; Earl Burns of G. H. Sternberg; and Tom Holway, construction trades teacher at Peabody Junior High.

Help boxes installed on area interstates

A network of "help boxes" placed at one-half mile intervals along area interstate highways is being installed and will shortly be activated by the Illinois Department of Transportation.

Many local motorists noticed the new red covered boxes installed on a breakaway aluminum poles along Interstate 270 for the first time during the weekend. The pilot program involves placing the boxes along Interstates 270, 70 and 55. A completion date has not yet been determined.

Motorists needing the police, a wrecker or ambulance or road service may receive help by pressing a button inside the box. Requests will be registered at the department of transportation office and Illinois State Police headquarters and the necessary aid dispatched. Eventually, the system may be used throughout the state.

Although little information about the service has been published to date and the "help boxes" are not yet activated, one distressed motorist was observed Sunday along I-270 attempting to summon aid.

The hearing in Chicago will be held at the ICC's offices at 160 N. LaSalle St. on the 15th floor. Locations of the other hearings will be announced at a later date.

Lieberman said the purpose of the evening hearings is to allow citizens who could not otherwise attend an opportunity to bring their utility complaints to the attention of the agency.

complaints arise from utility customers who receive their paychecks only once or twice a month, but receive their utility bills at inconvenient times. The chairman explained that if a customer has to wait until a payday before paying his bill, he often will be classified as a delinquent account. Many utilities require a deposit from customers who are regularly delinquent. "This can create a serious hardship where a family budget is already stretched to the limit," Lieberman said.

Since most utilities provide a lower payment for customers who pay their bills within ten days, the ICC is considering the extension of the time during which the discount will be available. "Such an extension could make the lesser amount available to everyone, even those who are paid only once a month," he said.

The ICC already has held a number of hearings on this subject in Chicago, East St. Louis and Springfield. By conducting evening hearings in Chicago, Rockford, Danville, Carbondale, East St. Louis and Springfield, the commission hopes to provide a forum for all interested parties and collect information that will reflect the problems that exist throughout the state.

"It is our hope that these hearings will provide the best opportunity for customers to tell us about the billing or credit problems they have with their public utilities," Lieberman said. "This information should enable us to draft an order that will take these problems into account."

ICC hearings

The Illinois Commerce Commission will conduct evening public hearings in six cities across the state to inquire into the credit and billing practice of Illinois public utilities, ICC Chairman Marvin S. Lieberman announced today.

The ICC is considering a revision of its general orders which regulate the utilities regarding billing, deposits and the establishment of credit for customers, Lieberman said.

Hearings will be conducted in Chicago Aug. 14, Rockford Aug. 30, Danville Sept. 20, Carbondale Sept. 26, East St. Louis Oct. 18, and Springfield Oct. 25. All hearings will begin at 7 p.m. except in Chicago where they will begin at 7:30 p.m.

The hearing in Chicago will be held at the ICC's offices at 160 N. LaSalle St. on the 15th floor. Locations of the other hearings will be announced at a later date.

Lieberman said the purpose of the evening hearings is to allow citizens who could not otherwise attend an opportunity to bring their utility complaints to the attention of the agency.

Hasty-Duncan wedding at St. John United Church

Miss Deborah Duncan, a daughter of Mrs. Frieda M. Honican, 2802 Kirkpatrick Homes, and Dennis Paul Hasty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Hasty, 2817 Indiana Ave., were united in marriage July 28 in an evening ceremony at St. John United Church of Christ, 2801 Nameoki Road.

The Rev. Carl Eschenbrenner, assistant pastor, performed a double ring ceremony at six o'clock in the evening.

Branch candelabra lighted by David Paschedag, cousin of the bride and Darrin Hasty, brother of the groom, illuminated the white carpeted aisle for the service. Bouquets of white flowers adorned the altar.

Mrs. Leola Lipka, cousin of the groom, sang "Words of Never," "One Hand, One Heart," the Lord's Prayer and "We're Only Just Begun."

Given in marriage by her uncle, Thurman Brooks, the bride wore a white polyester organza and Venice lace gown. Full sheer sleeves with wide lace cuffs were set in the fitted lace bodice, featuring a square neckline accented with insertion ribbon.

A scalloped panel of lace centered with satin ribbon extended from the high rise waistline to a very wide band of lace at the hemline.

Her slightly gathered skirt swept into a chapel length train, edged in matching lace and ribbon braid. She wore a white organza Juliet collar, accented with Venice lace flowers, embellished with pearls, to secure her elbow length veil of bridal illusion, and she carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid and long satin streamers.

Miss Penny Downs, maid of honor, and Miss Phyllis Barnes, Miss Karen Walliser, the bride's cousin, were bridesmaids. Connie Paschedag and Tommy Paschedag, cousins of the bride, were flower girl and ringbearer.

Yellow voile over taffeta created the floor length gown worn by the adult attendants. They were designed with sabrina necklines. Empire waists and bishop sleeves with deep cuffs trimmed in white Venice lace inserted with yellow satin ribbon.

The flower girl wore a white voile over taffeta frock designed in identical style to those worn by the bridesmaids. She had a ribbon bow in her hair and held a basket of daisies, purple statice and baby breath.

Danny Jones served as best man, with Don Hasty, a brother of the groom, and Mike Duncan, the bride's brother, as groomsmen. Another brother of the groom, Darrel Hasty, and Mike Forshee seated the guests. Miss Shannon Marmon presided over the guest book at a reception held at the Moose Club immediately following the service.

A rehearsal dinner was served by the groom's parents in their home on the evening prior to the ceremony.

Following a wedding trip to the Lake of the Ozarks, the newly married couple will reside in Granite City.

McDONALD'S NAME 1ST CHILD DENNIS MICHAEL. Mr. and Mrs. Dennis McDonald of Rolla, Mo., are announcing the birth of their first child, a son, born Aug. 2 at the Phelps Hospital in Rolla. They have named the infant Dennis Michael. He weighed six pounds, one ounce. The paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Ernest McDonald of Granite City. The maternal grandmother, Mrs. Leonard Blacklock, resides in Collinsville.

Nameoki Methodist scene of Markarian-Moore nuptials

White urns holding arrangements of deep green foliage interspersed with large white lilies, red carnations, baby blue breath and pink tinted mums provided the altar decorations for the wedding of Miss Debra Jean Moore and John Robert Markarian at 7 o'clock in the evening of Aug. 3 at Nameoki United Methodist Church.

Lighting the candles in aisle candelabra for the service were Ron Markarian and Miss Debra Moore, a brother and sister of the bride couple.

"The First Time Ever I Saw Your Face," "Love" and "The Wedding Song" were sung by Mrs. Barbara Schmitt, accompanied by Miss Carol Jenkins at the piano and Jon Grindstaff on guitar.

The Rev. Roy Baugh, pastor of Nameoki United Methodist Church, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Fathers of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Otto J. Moore of Ironton, Mo. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Markarian, 1108 Clark Ave.

Given in marriage by her father, the former Miss Moore chose a floor length gown of white satrapeau lavishly accented with Irish lace. Lace marked the square yoke and edged the long tapered sleeves ending in a ruffle at the wrist. Her fitted bodice was designed with a wedding band neckline and a crescent waist. Enhancing the A-line skirt was a chapel length train bordered with a wide ruffle of matching lace.

She wore a large picture frame hat covered with silk illusion veiling caught on each side and in the back with large silk roses and cascading to the waist. Her bouquet of multi-colored daisies, carnations, roses, statice and baby breath was arranged in a natural colored basket festooned with a pink satin bow on the handle.

Maid of honor, Miss Jamie Byers, wore a sleeveless formal length gown of shocking pink chiffon with a wide cape collar and a flounce at the hemline.

Miss Tina Gitchett and Miss Debra Presley, bridesmaids, were gowned in pink satrapeau dresses fashioned in identical style to the honor attendant's frock.

They wore picture hats in shocking pink and held baskets of blossoms to match the bridal bouquet.

Attending the groom as best man was Chris Baum, David Hudson and David Geisler served as groomsmen and Dale Rice and Mark Heilig were ushers.

Brothers of the bride and groom, Toby Moore and Randall Markarian, were ringbearers.

Guests were received by the newly married couple at a reception held at the Moose Hall in Edwardsville. Following a wedding trip to Florida they will reside at 1715 Olive St.

Mrs. Moore, mother of the bride, was attired in a formal length blue crepe dress and wore a corsage of pink carnations accented with miniature lavender flowers.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Markarian, selected a mint green crepe full length gown and her corsage was created of gardenias and a white satin bow.

A graduate of Granite City High School, the bride is employed at Hudson's Jewelry Store. Mr. Markarian graduated also from Granite City High School and is a junior pre-medical student at Washington University in St. Louis.

Out-of-town guests here for the wedding included Gary Meharian and Mrs. Lucille Avshian, both cousins of the groom, from Niagara Falls, N. Y., and Miss Diane Moore, a sister of the bride, from Ironton, Mo.

BREMER SENTENCED
On Aug. 4, 1972, Arthur Bremer was found guilty of having shot Alabama Gov. George Wallace and sentenced to 62 years in prison.
